THOMAS' RE-APPOINTMENT

Since so much has been written in the daily newspapers about the county committee's action at Martinez last Tuesday night, we will content ourselves with the same statement in this, our newspaper, that we made before the committee.

In the normal course of affairs a public official receives re-appointment quite naturally if his administration of the office has been successful. We have never heard of any widespread criticism of the conduct of the postal service in Richmond during Mr. Thomas' first term. Instead there has been general approbation of the increased service rendered to the city of Richmond and of El Cerrito. Consequently, we are under the impression that the re-appointment has already been recommended by Senator McAdoo, and that Mr. Thomas' reappointment will be confirmed. So that any action by the local county committee can serve no other purpose than to advertise a "split" on the committee which makes Republicans, not Democrats, happy.

The committee has 24 members. Of that number 13 signed a petition endorsing Mr. Thomas on the basis of his record. At Tuesday's meeting, 12 seemingly opposed Mr. Thomas, not Mr. Thomas' record; and of the remaining 12, only 8 were present to reaffirm their stand as indicated by their signatures on the petition sent to Washington.

The action of the voting majority which was present in voting to appoint a committee to investigate Mr. Thomas' record seems utterly foolish as the U. S. Postal Department, on a non partisan and an unbiase and efficient basis, does the job most carefully. And, the public knows that Mr. Thomas record of extending the posta service here has been good.

LABOR

FERRY PARLEY TUESDAY

The present deadlock in the labor dispute of the employees of tht San Rafael Ferry which has tied up the ferry boats since Wednesday morning will likely come to a head sometime after next Monday, according to a letter written to Oliver Olson, company president, today.

In the letter the unions involved—the Masters, Mates and Pilots, Local 40 (Geo. Fourcett); the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association No. 97 (A. Disher); and Inland Boatmens' Union (C. W. Deal and B. J. Stillings)—expressed acceptance willingly, are anxious soon to meet with President Olson to iron out the difficulties.

In the letter of acceptance the unions contended that Olson had refused to agree to negotiate a new contract on February 1st; that startling reductions of pay, in one case as much as $100 per month for an employee had been started; that "you were going to cancel the contract and operate your business as you saw fit."

Olson contends it will be virtually impossible for the ferry company to meet the increases at this time; that the company suffered a 14 per cent traffic loss in 1937; that th unions want a retrooctive wag increase back to August 1st, 1937, and are violoting the agreement which terminated last last Monday.

The stockholders want their money.

And the Richmond-San Rafael traveling public contend that the rates are devilishly high; and hope some agreement can be worked out where by the men can be paid the right wages; the company stockholders can receive dividends; and, yet, that the ferry travelers can get reduced fares!

SANTA FE HELPS

On behalf of the Santa Fe Railway, President Samuel T. Bledsoe did accept an invitation to aid the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, January 29th, in waging the fight against infantile paralysis, and to assist President Roosevelt in the establishment of the New National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The campaign which is meeting with growing interest each year will be supported by Santa Fe officials and employes in each of the twelve states which the railroad serves, through posters, station and countercards, and through the Santa Fe Magazine.

Every effort had been mad to arouse the public generally to the increasing importance of protecting the children in all of our communities from epidemics of infantile paralysis.

Local agents were cooperating with the local Committee of prominent citizens in each community along the line, in an endeavor to sell Founder's Memberships in the new National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

A dollar bill will make you a Founder with the President th the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

CITY GOVERNMENT

HYDRAULIC MINING?

Week ago a communication from the Richmond Civic League addressed to the city council protested the condition of Western Drive, Golden Gate Avenue, other streets, asked that a survey be made to improve the conditions of the streets. City Engineer Hoffman answered that all of the streets in that locality were unimproved and that the city necessarily was forced to devote all of the available funds for the maintenance of the center of the roadway. Councilman Scott suggested that if the residents of the locality wanted to form an assessment district the streets could be improved, or even paved.

At Monday night's meeting didoctic Professor Mathurin, president of the Civic League appeared before the council. He insisted that there has been some misunderstanding and in a twenty-minute discourse laid down the law as regards the city's duty in the matter. To Engineer Hoffman he stated that the center of any object, even a stick, could not be preserved without preserving its sides. To City Attorney Carlson he volunteered many legal citations. To the council members he stated that the reason that the ballot had been shortened in Richmond was to make them more responsive to the wishes of the voters, and that as they had been gracious in the past he felt sure that justice would be done.

Specifically he charged that the run-off water from the Point Richmond hills charged down the slopes in torrents and cascades which were beautiful indeed to view, but just like hydraulic mining. That the making of the streets had interfered with the natural drainage, that the city was bound to fix up the situation, he contended.

Introduced later was Engineering instructor Alvares from the U. of California who spoke on drainage, that a case might be worked up.

Prof. Dondo also told the council about a confusion of street numbers on Western Drive, formerly Ocean Avenue. This was explained by Mr. Hoffman when he said that the city had not insisted on the old timers out here changing their numbers if they insisted that they wanted the old numbers. However, he stated, there is but one true number for every lot in Richmond and his office has always given out that number when asked for.

Mr. Dondo also told of the well-known flood condition that happens on low-lying Cutting Boulevard when the hard rains come, that he "could not see the car in front of him" when driving on the thoroughfare on a rainy day. Councilman Scott questioned this statement, asserting that he had driven over the street daily for fifteen or more years and had never experienced such a condition.

A master of hyperbole, Prof., Dondo replied, and then as a sort of anti-climax got up after his vigorous recital and stated that he did not want to hurt anyone's feelings.

Mayor Hinkley left the matter with the council as a whole for the meeting of February 14th.

OIL LEADERS CONVICTED

Government Wins Anti-Trust Case . . . A. E. Morgan Opposes President's Plan for More TVA Set-Ups

Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana is here seen in action as he established a record for long talking in the senate, at least in modern times. Engaged in the filibuster against the anti-lynching bill, this successor of Huey Long spoke for 27 hours and 45 minutes—and he confined himself strictly to his views on the measure.

"Guilty" Is Oil Verdict

UNCLE SAM won the long drawn out trial of oil concerns and their executives before Federal Judge Slosn in Madison, Wis. Sixteen oil companies operating in 10 Middle West states and 30 individuals were found guilty of conspiring to violate the Sherman anti-trust law. Prominent among the men convicted are Henry M. Dawes of Pure Oil, E. G. Seubert of Standard Oil of Indiana, Jacob France of Mid-Continent Petroleum, I. A. Shaughnessy of Globe Oil and Refining, Dan Moran of Continental Oil and Frank Phillips of Phillips Petroleum.

H. M. Dawes

Formal motion for a new trial was filed but will not be ruled on for several weeks. Probably the case will be taken to the Supreme court.

The defendants were accused of entering into a secret agreement to purchase quantities of oil from independent oil producers at artificially high prices. These prices were then quoted as the market price to jobbers, who had signed contracts with the defendants to purchase the fuel at the spot (or daily) market price.

The defense denied having artificially influenced the market and pleaded unsuccessfully that the companies merely bought distress gasoline to save the independent refiners from failure and did so in accordance with a policy approved by President Roosevelt and Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes.

"No More Regulation Laws"

GEORGE H. DAVIS, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, sent to the senate unemployment committee a plea for assurances that there will be passed at this session of congress no more laws for regulating business.

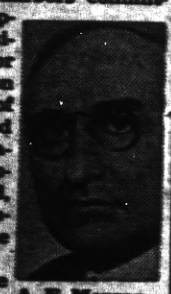

"The real cause of the present recession," said Davis, "is lack of confidence in the future, caused cumulatively by the passage of laws culminating in the undistributed profits tax and the threat of the wages and hours bill."

There is no question in the minds of business men, he said, that these steps would restore confidence:

1. Repeal of the undivided profits tax.
2. A sharp modification in the amount of capital gains tax.
3. Liberalization of the security exchange and commodity exchange rules to provide more liquid markets.
4. Assurance that, at this session at least, there will be no additional laws passed further regulating business, such as the wage-hour bill.

Morgan Hits Power Plan

ARTHUR E. MORGAN, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, in secret testimony before the house rivers and harbors committee, declared his opposition to the President's program for the establishment on other watersheds of agencies patterned after the TVA. Water power development, he asserted, "has become an obsession with some men."

A. E. Morgan

In place of the regional resources agencies proposed by Mr. Roosevelt, Morgan recommended that interstate water control districts be set up. "It would seem better," said he, "to deal with the ownership of remaining water power resources in separate legislation rather than to encumber general water control legislation with the problem, possibly with the result of defeating that more inclusive purpose.

"The part which water power development will play in a united river control program is being greatly exaggerated in the public mind."

Business at White House

FIFTY members of the business advisory council of the Department of Commerce, all of them leaders of the nation's business and industry, went to the White House for a long conference with the President, and told him what they believed to be responsible for the current "recession." Then they promised to co-operate with him in combating the slump on condition that he make clear the course he intends to follow.

The business men specified that necessities to aid in the struggle were limitation to wage-hour legislation, a truce with public utilities, no general purge or holding companies and no further tinkering with the currency.

To these suggestions Mr. Roosevelt gave his approval. Others were heard by him without comment.

W. Averill, the council's chairman, issued a statement which embraced the views of his colleagues and which was read to Mr. Roosevelt.

The statement said re-employment in private industry is the critical problem now before the country.

"We wish to record with you our faith in the efficacy of the principles of democracy, and yet our grave concern over the possible far-reaching effects of our present situation," the statement concluded. "Tolerance and understanding must be used by all sections and interests in the country."

At the conclusion of the conference the President announced that he will seek the formulation of a definite policy, designed to end the depression and create a framework for steady functioning of a nation's economic life through the appointment of a group representative of all the interests within the country.

The group would consist of as many as twenty-five or as few as five or six persons, who would be charged with the task of sifting over all proposals to aid business and unsnarling all conflicts existing among the various interests with a view toward perfecting an administrative and legislative policy for business.

Security Fund Shy

EXPENDITURES under the social security and railroad retirement acts were $294,681,344 more up to January 1, 1938, than was received by the treasury from taxes imposed to finance these programs.

The treasury said this condition would not hold permanently, and that the social security taxes were being used primarily to build up a reserve for old age pensions which began operating the first of the year.

A great portion of the expenditures was used in grants to states to set up social security machinery.

Tragedy in Canada

FIRE that destroyed the college of the Sacred Heart at St. Hyacinthe, not far from Quebec, resulted in the death of at least 47 persons and the injury of many others. The victims included members of the teaching staff as well as students.

Fourteen drums of gasoline housed in the four-story structure contributed to the speed with which the fire roared through the building.

Huge Relief Expenditures

SOCIAL securities board announced that government agencies spent $2,153,417,000 for public relief in the first eleven months of 1937, a decline of $251,321,000 from the corresponding period of 1936.

Payments to relief recipients in November were $180,871,000, a drop of $36,000,000 from November, 1936, but $15,000,000 more than in October, 1937.

The figures include payments to recipients under all types of public assistance.

Mexican High Tariff

FOR the purpose of "leveling the balance on international payments," Mexico had just put into effect virtually prohibitive tariff rates on items considered to be luxuries.

No details regarding the amounts and nature of the new rates were revealed, but the finance department indicated that Mexico desired to abolish the importation of almost everything except machinery.

The new rates will chiefly affect United States exporters, who already have complained of recent increases in Mexico's tariff schedule. Secretary of State Hull has said that the increases were contrary to the plan of removing trade barriers as advocated at the inter-American peace conference at Buenos Aires in 1936.

Egypt's King Weds

FAROUK, king of Egypt, was married in Cairo to Miss Fraida Zulfikar as cannon boomed a salute. The city was thronged with natives, but they had no glimpse of the bride, because the Moslem clergy were in control and would not permit her even to be present at the ceremony. They did, however, consent to a semi-public reception afterward in the Abdine palace at which the seventeen-year-old queen made an appearance.

More Woe for Jews

RUMANIA'S government, headed by Premier Octavian Goga, is so anti-Semitic that thousands of Jews are seeking means of escape from the country. Jewish committees visited foreign consulates in Bucharest to ask about the possibility of emigration to Brazil, Ethiopia, Madagascar, Mexico, or Australia. One of the latest moves of the government is the issuance of orders that make virtually impossible the intermarriage of Jews and gentiles.

All alien Jews not engaged in farming were given 30 days in which to quit Ecuador, under a decree by the provisional military government of Col. Alberto Enriquez. Hundreds of Jews permitted to colonize in Ecuador to escape persecution in Central Europe entered business instead of agriculture, as the government had expected them to do, the decree said.

Huge Loss Laid to C.I.O.

FROM the lips of Mayor J. K. Carson of Portland, Ore., the senate's joint committee on commerce and labor learned that the activities of the C. I. O. and Harry Bridges, its leader in that region, have cost the people there more than a billion dollars in the last three years. This was due to strikes and maritime tieups.

Harry Bridges

"Bridges cannot even vote in this country," said Mayor Carson, "yet he exercises more power over the maritime industry of the Pacific coast than all the ship owners and all the seamen combined."

Bridges, who came from Australia, is not naturalized. He is a Communist and his deportation has been requested by the inspectors of the bureau of immigration and naturalization, but issuance of a warrant has been prevented by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Mayor Carson said the shipping and fruit industries of the West Coast had suffered not only because of maritime strikes but also because of tie-ups caused by the longshoremen's union, which are controlled by Bridges.

"The fruit industry is endangered by the present attitude of maritime labor," Mayor Carson said. "The continued disruption of deliveries has resulted in a lack of confidence in our ability to fulfill orders, causing us to lose our European markets to Argentine and South Africa."

Stalin Checks the Purge

NOT a single bit of legislative work was accomplished by the first session of the new parliament in Soviet Russia. But there was a lot of speech making, and external enemies, especially Japan, were denounced and defied.

Dictator Josef Stalin, through the central committee, ordered an end to the mass expulsion of Communist party members, which has usually been followed by death, banishment or loss of jobs.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, indicated satisfaction with the results of the purge, but assailed "rotten leaders" who played into the enemy's hands. "Under the mask of false vigilance agents of Fascism sought to break up and oust from the ranks our bolshevist personnel," Pravda said.

Chautemps in Again

FRANCE'S latest governmental crisis ended with the return of Camille Chautemps to the post of premier. He and his Popular Front cabinet had resigned because of financial and labor troubles. Several old timers tried in vain to form a new government and Chautemps was again called on for the job. His new cabinet was much like the former one and it was believed it would not need the support of the communists. Eighteen of the twenty ministers were Radical-Socialists. Chautemps was drawing up plans for extensive social reforms.

Camille Chautemps

Continuation of France's vast armament program seemed assured, what with Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos and Defense Minister Edouard Deladier retaining their posts in the new cabinet.

Every Tenth Worker Idle

STATISTICS released by Secretary of Labor Perkins showed that every tenth worker in the country is without employment. Her findings were disclosed as the senate unemployment and relief committee called state and local relief administrators to testify on increased demands for aid during the recession.

Approximately 1,162,000 persons filed unemployment compensation claims for benefits during the first week of January when 21 states and the District of Columbia began this new plan, the secretary reported.

Flying Cadets Needed

MORE aviation cadets are urgently wanted by the War department. It announced that 232 unfilled vacancies exist for the March flying cadet class at the air corps training center, Randolph field, Texas. Only 112 qualified candidates thus far have been authorized out of the class' total of 344.

The War department ordered all regular officers in army posts to obtain blue dress uniforms before October 1. Officers buy their own outfits. The new uniforms cost about $100.

Biting a Dog and Other Methods of Taking Oath

We all know the old story of the editor who told a young reporter that a dog biting a man was not news, but that a man biting a dog was news. In Kenya this brand of news is fairly common, for when the natives of a certain tribe have to appear as witnesses on any occasion, they take with them a live dog. Before giving their evidence the native will take a bite of skin from the wretched animal, at the same time saying, "As I bite this dog, so may I be bitten if I lie!" declares a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Many other countries have strange oaths; natives of Malaya tear the limbs from some small animal, such as a lizard or a frog, symbolizing that they may be similarly rent to pieces if they speak not the truth.

The Chinese smash a saucer to signify their willingness to be destroyed if they should bear false witness.

A Manx deemster upon his appointment has to make the following quaint oath: " . . . I will execute the laws of this island justly, and as indifferently as the herring back-bone doth lie in the midst of the fish."

Better Light HELPS KEEP EYES RIGHT!

PEOPLE say modern lighting that is "easy on the eyes" makes the eyes feel better . . . And they are right . . . Good lighting brings out the beauty of the home furnishings . . . It aids personal beauty, too.

Light that is glaring brightness or that is dim and gloomy makes hard work of seeing. It causes squints and frowns and scowls and brings on many premature wrinkles and face-lines.

Good, modern lighting merely means the right kind of light, and the right amount of light where you read or sew or use your eyes. And you can have it easily, quickly, inexpensively. A Home Lighting Recommendation chart made out for your home will fit lighting to serve the exact seeing-needs in your home. This is a free service and there is no obligation. Hundreds are taking advantage of this service. Why not you?

Three tiny skiers at Davos, Switzerland, are having some fun of their own. Like the youngsters in the Scandinavian countries, the children of Switzerland are given skis at an early age and are taught the technique of this invigorating winter sport.

COTTON LACE DRESS

Here is just the thing for wintering in the South—this cotton lace dress washes beautifully, never rumples, and is both cool and colorful for hot days. The floral pattern of the lace makes up charmingly for a dress of this type. With buttons all the way down the front of the dress, short sleeves, and a revert-type collar, this dress is perfect both for active sports and spectator sports.

'Dementia Pugilistica' Name for 'Punch Drunk'

Washington.—Uncle Sam's navy doctors do not care for the term "punch drunk." They admit it is colorful and "scarcely requires elucidation," but say it tends to encumber nosological nomenclature.

The term "dementia pugilistica" has been coined instead for persons suffering delusions of pugilistic prowess. It would apply to any one who puts up his "dukes" at the sound of a trolley-car bell, or who habitually scowls, snorts, blows, grimaces, crouches or squares off like a boxer.

BEDTIME STORY

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER RABBIT WATCHES BUSY BEE

Busy Bee, as all can see,
Is just as busy as can be.
To and fro she doth go
Where the sweetest flowers grow.
Works all day without play
Treasures sweet to put away.
Busy Bee, I pray teach me
Pleasure in my work to see.

NOW, Peter Rabbit had known Bumble Bee and Bumble's cousin, Busy Bee, ever since he was big enough to remember anything. He was forever running across one or the other of them in the sweet clover patch, and always he was very respectful and polite, for he knew quite as much as he cared to about the sharp little lances they carried. But though he had known them so long he really knew very little about them. He knew that Bumble was always rumbling and grumbling and making a great fuss about everything that he did, and was very proud of his handsome black and yellow suit, but he suspected that Bumble did a whole lot of pretending and really wasn't such a hard worker after all. He knew that Busy Bee always seemed in a hurry, didn't seem to mind in the least that she was very plainly dressed, and when she was busiest always seemed happier. Anyway, she did a great deal of humming, then. And this was all that Peter knew about Bumble and Busy Bee.

The more Peter thought about what Bumble had said to him the more he wondered if it were true that Busy Bee was such a hard worker, and at last he made up his mind to find out. The first thing to do was to find Busy herself. Peter remembered what he had learned when he was hunting for Bumble and wasted no time looking for the brightest flowers, but went straight to the sweetest flowers, which happened to be in his sweet clover patch. There he found Busy and she seemed to be very hard at work taking something from the heart of each flower she visited.

"Good morning, Busy Bee," said Peter politely.

"Morning, Buz-z-z, buz-z-z! Too much to do to talk. Buz-z-z, buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" replied Busy Bee, flying to the next flower.

Peter followed. "What do you work so hard for?" he asked.

"Buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" was all the reply he got as Busy Bee hurried to another flower.

"I shouldn't think there would be any fun in working all the time," said Peter. "Tell me, Busy Bee, is it true that you do work all the time?"

"Buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" was all the reply Peter got.

Then Peter started in to count the flowers that Busy visited, but she went from flower to flower so fast that he soon grew tired of that. Then while he was looking somewhere else for a minute she disappeared. Peter was sure that he had his head turned only a wee little minute, but when he looked for her she was nowhere to be seen. He didn't know just what to do. To tell the truth, he felt rather foolish. Finally he decided that as long as he was at the sweet clover patch he might as well fill his stomach and straightway began to eat. He had almost forgotten about Busy Bee when, as he started to nibble a clover blossom, there was a sharp "Buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" close to one of his long ears. Busy Bee was back again and Peter didn't eat that particular blossom. No, sir, he didn't. He left it for Busy because she seemed to want it and he knew it is best to let Busy have what she wants.

"Good Morning, Busy Bee," Said Peter Politely.

IS SUICIDE DUE TO "INFERIORITY COMPLEXES"?

DR. ALFRED ADLER, noted Vienna medical psychologist, who originated the term "inferiority complex," says that the suicide

"gives up before all the problems of life, expressing the conviction that he can do nothing about the situation. Suicide is always a reproach or a revenge. With every suicide we can find someone at whose door he is laying the responsibility for his death." Dr. Adler believes that suicide is the deepest and most terrible of all "inferiority complexes." It is so hopeless that death is the only way to achieve freedom, or the desired superiority. The suicide imagines he will triumph in death.

Posed as a Man

An extraordinary story of a twenty-three-year-old Turkish woman, who was brought up as a boy and refused to regard herself as a girl, has been unfolded in an Istanbul court, says the Montreal Herald. The woman, whose name, Melek, means "Angel," was charged with posing as a man and courting and proposing to a lovely Smyrna heiress who is barely sixteen. Melek, who is of athletic build and outstandingly good looking, appeared in court dressed in a well-cut man's tweed suit. It was revealed during the case that Melek had been brought up in masculine attire since her earliest childhood. She went through school as a boy, and was eventually admitted to the faculty of law at the university without her real sex being detected. While at school she played games with the other boys, and excelled as a center forward in football. She even took up boxing. When the court decided to bind her over she burst out, "I will not be a woman. I am a man."

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Curtaining Your Front Door.

YOUR front door greets your friends before you do. Is it dressed to look its best? Here are some simple rules that will be useful in selecting the material and style for front door curtaining.

Choose a fabric that looks well on both sides and that harmonizes with the outside color of your door as well as with the color scheme of the hall or room into which it opens. A simple net curtain material or plain silk are good to use but if your door is white on the outside think twice before you choose the usual ecru or pongee color. White net or silk of a color to match the shutters or the trim of the house will look infinitely more attractive and will not be too conspicuous. The curtains may be made double with a different color on the inside if need be. Pale yellow is another color that is always safe to use as it gives the effect of light shining through the door.

These curtains should be firmly anchored both top and bottom so that they do not blow about and catch in the door when it is opened and closed. Both bottom and top rods may be fastened over hooks as shown here at A.

Every homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables; curtains for every type of room; lampshades, rugs, ottomans and other useful articles for the home. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents (coins preferred) to Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Baked Peaches.

1 No. 2½ can peach halves
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup brown sugar
Cinnamon

Pour the peaches and the syrup into a shallow pan, a cake pan is convenient to use. Turn the peach halves so the cut side is up. Sprinkle the sugar over the peaches, place a piece of butter in each peach where the pit was removed and sprinkle them ever so lightly with cinnamon. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) until the sugar on the edges of the peach begins to brown, or about 30 minutes.

Canned pear halves are delicious prepared in this same manner.

If the fruit is served as a dessert, plain cream is nice to serve with it.

As to Brocades and Embroideries

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOU happen to have a bit of choice brocade or rare embroidery, perhaps treasured for years among wrappings of tissue paper, the psychological moment has arrived in which to make use of it. You will be right in fashion if you wear a dress, a wrap, a waistcoat mayhap, a hat or carry a bag that is made of rich brocade or if not brocade then try a touch of Oriental embroidery to give high-style accent.

The best of it is if your fair ancestresses failed to will you their brocades or embroideries you can be in vogue regardless of their sins of omission, for the craze for these feminine vanities is flourishing to an extent that you can find the most exquisite weaves and in endless variety throughout the silk showings now on display.

Perhaps one of the most interesting chapters that has to do with the story of brocades relates to their importance as a medium for handsome evening coats. The model portrayed above to the right in the illustration is typical of the wraps best-dressed women are wearing to formal midwinter dinners and theaters, the opera and other gala events. This princess evening wrap is of black and silver brocade with silver fox collar. A black sequin and red feather ornament is worn in the hair.

For party frocks brocades are ever so fashionable. In order to emphasize the exquisite beauty of the fabric the styling is simple at all times. For their coming-out parties many debutantes chose to wear brocade this winter and for mid-season festive occasion brocade is an outstanding favorite. Shown below to the left is a very charming gown of luxurious blue metallized weighted silk brocade in calla lily pattern with bouffant skirt and the new camisole and halter decolletage.

There are endless ways in which brocades are being used other than for entire gowns and wraps. One of the smartest fashions that we know is the tailored waistcoat of upholstery brocade done in tiny neat colorful design.

Volumes could also be written about the handsome embroideries that are playing so spectacular a role in current fashion. Perhaps the most exciting news is in regard to the perfectly charming little hats turned out for midseason wear. These hats are "darling" to wear with winter coats and they also stress the trend to Chinese influence in resort millinery. The hats pictured are representative types of this new trend, by Louisander. The one above is a gold velvet-surface knitted silk jersey draped turban with band of antique Chinese silk embroidery said to be from a lord's coat over a hundred years old. The gloves are gold colored to match the hat. Note the silver Gerli collar. The other model is of white velvet-surface knitted silk jersey with high front cuff of antique Chinese silk embroidery. The Chinese bracelet which adds such an effective note is wide in accordance with fashion's demand.

BLUE WILL LEAD AS COLOR FOR SPRING

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

From a study of fashion trends here and abroad, a group of stylists and merchandise executives from department stores and buying offices, has decided that blues will be the most prevalent volume color in coats and suits purchased in retail stores next spring. After the blues, feminine shoppers are expected to buy their coats and suits in these colors, named in order of their anticipated popularity: beige, tans and browns; black; rose tones, gray, violet tones, gold and green.

In strictly dress coats and suits, black is predicted as the most popular color for spring, with navy, beige, brown and gray obtaining customer acceptance in that order. Beiges and tans are looked upon to be the leading volume shades in casual coats and suits, with blues, black, gray, gold, violet tones and green following in that order. Beiges, tans and coppers are expected to be seen most frequently in sports type coats and suits, but blues, rose tones, violet tones, gray, and green will also lead in customer demand.

Navy is singled out to be the predominant volume color in spring silk dresses.

The speed with which Bayer tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing . . . and the treatment is simple and pleasant. You will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines. And when you buy, see that you get genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

HARMONY OF BODY MIND AND SPIRIT

By Tania Tanagra

What are the mental notes you who are parents have made for this yet New Year? Parenthood is a serious career . . . or should be. Parents need to be friend, artist, guide to their children . . . for some of the most important training (conceptins and attudes take place in the home.

Help your children to think clearly for themselves . . . . . show them the value of keeping an open mind. Seek facts and then help them to use those facts in forming sound judgments. Be a guide and adventure with your children in their quest for truth. Tempt them to new achievements (what seems impossible today may be possible or even commonplace tomorrow.) Help them to find joy in thinking of others and doing things for them.

Every child is entitled to a sound body, mind and education . . . . but these are not enough. They should be given the opportunity to grow in happy, pleasant surroundings where they will know love, understanding and special interest. They all have problems, thots and reactions which need careful guiding and understanding . . . they need to feel that they have your love and can lean on it.

You will reap the rewards of today's training tomorrow . . . and when the tomorrow brings young womanhood and manhood you will have equipped your children with weapons necessary to carry them into a fuller and more harmonious life . . . to be clear thinking . . . broad individuals with a zest for carrying on their life's work.

Point Richmond seems to be a strategic point for the launching of political campaigns. Most politicians concede that if thty can carry this district they have a more than even chance to win; and more recently District Attorney Francis Healy chose to throw his tam-o-shanter, or whatever the Irish is for hat, in the ring, in his speech before the Richmond Civic League in the Guild hall to announce his candidacy for a return to office.

TRINITY GUILD SOCIAL

Mrs. Mary Young entertained a number of friends at her home on Golden Gate avenue last Saturday afternoon for the benefit of Trinity Guild. A dessert luncheon was served at 1:30 after which a delightful social hour was spent, games enjoyed and prizes awarded.

New York's Auto Dead for One Year

How that huge area of New York's Central park known as the "mall" would look if all the persons killed by automobiles for the year of 1937 were buried there is visualized by the above picture. The crosses were painted on this photograph to impress motorists and pedestrians alike of the enormity of the death toll. Police figures show that in 1937 a total of 943 people were killed by automobiles in New York.

Presiding at Utility Trial

United States Circuit Justice Florence Allen, shown as she presided over the three-judge court hearing the recent TVA-Utility company case at Chattanooga, Tenn. Judge Allen was prominently mentioned for the vacancy on the Supreme court of the United States for which President Roosevelt nominated Solicitor General Stanley Reed.

Du Pont Heiress and Husband

Pauline Louise duPont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Francis duPont, and her husband, Alfred C. Harrison III, New York lawyer, shown in their car as they left the Christ Protestant Episcopal church, Wilmington, Del., after their marriage. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and the former Ethel duPont, second cousin of the bride, were married in the same church last June.

Egypt Plans Increase in Its Army

An increase of the fighting forces of Egypt was among the first announced intentions of Mohammed Mahmoud Pasha, the liberal leader who recently became premier. Above is shown a regiment of Egyptian soldiers on parade. Egypt, with a population equal to that of Turkey, has only 11,000 men under arms, while the latter has an army of a million.

TRAVIS GETS READY

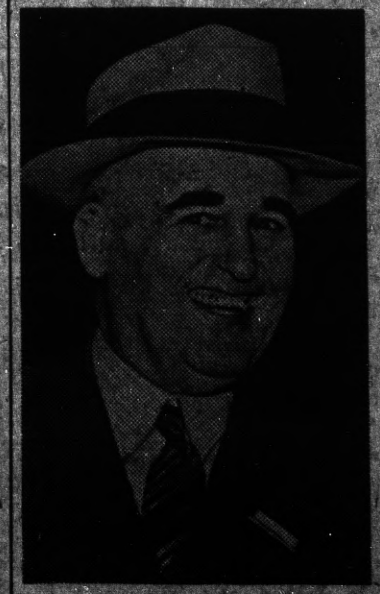

Cecil Travis, slugging shortstop of the Washington Senators, gets in shape for his drive on the American league batting championship next season with lots of wood chopping on his farm near Riverdale, Ga. Last season he batted .344 and finished among the first five hitters of the league.

Children's Hour in Naziland

Dr. Joseph Goebbels may be a dictator to the German press, but to his young daughter Hilde, the propaganda minister is just "vater." Goebbels is shown with Hilde on the recent occasion when he attended a children's party and delivered an address which was broadcast throughout the country. Goebbels, who is one of the most fiery of the Nazi leaders, controls all forms of public information, such as the newspapers, radio stations and motion picture studies and theaters.

ASKS TAXLESS HOMES

Declaring that the state's financial position justifies his action, Gov. Hugh L. White of Mississippi startled the state legislature by urging that all homes in Mississippi be exempted from all taxes, state, county, district and municipal. The governor's startling proposal was greeted with cheers. Please, can anybody join in?

HAS "WHISTLING" EYE

THE CAULIFLOWER COLYUM
By Frankie Neil
Former Bantamweight Champion of the World

Hurrah! they have brought a good pugilist from dear Old England, but he found a very much improved boy from our country, and it was a good thing he had improved that much, or he would have been on the short end of the decision instead of a draw.

* * *

The contest in itself was a good one, lots of action, but very little effective punching, no one was hurt to amount to much, which is not very pleasing to the cash customers, they want to see someone down for the count now and then, and want a kill, so to speak.

* * *

Braddock was a very much improved pugilist from past experience or contest that he had shown in, and seems to be a real contender for the heavyweight crown again, and lets hope he is the one to regain it, as he deserves credit for his showing against a very clever boxer as Tommy Farr is. A man pretty well along in years and I know what it means to box a boy that is rugged and tough when you are the age Braddock is, and good luck to Jimmie.

* * *

There you have it eighteen thousand peoplt paid a goodly sum to see these gladiators pummell each other into submission, and neither was able to accomplish that result, therefore making another match possible.

* * *

And that is just the object that pleases the promoters, it means a crowded house at the next meeting of the two if they are matched, which is very likely.

* * *

From radio reports, my opinion would have been a draw, but it seems like slight mistakes in low punching lost the majority of rounds for Farr, but referees must take into consideration that if low punching does not incapitate the the opponent for the duration of ten seconds it is hardly fair to penalize the other man for such as low punching is sometimes the fault of the man hit, as he knocks punches down when trying to block, of course if the man punching low does it repeatedly, then its OK. Caution him out loud and if he does it again, disqualify him, championship or oherwise, as the offender is either trying to lose that way or sneak home a win.

* * *

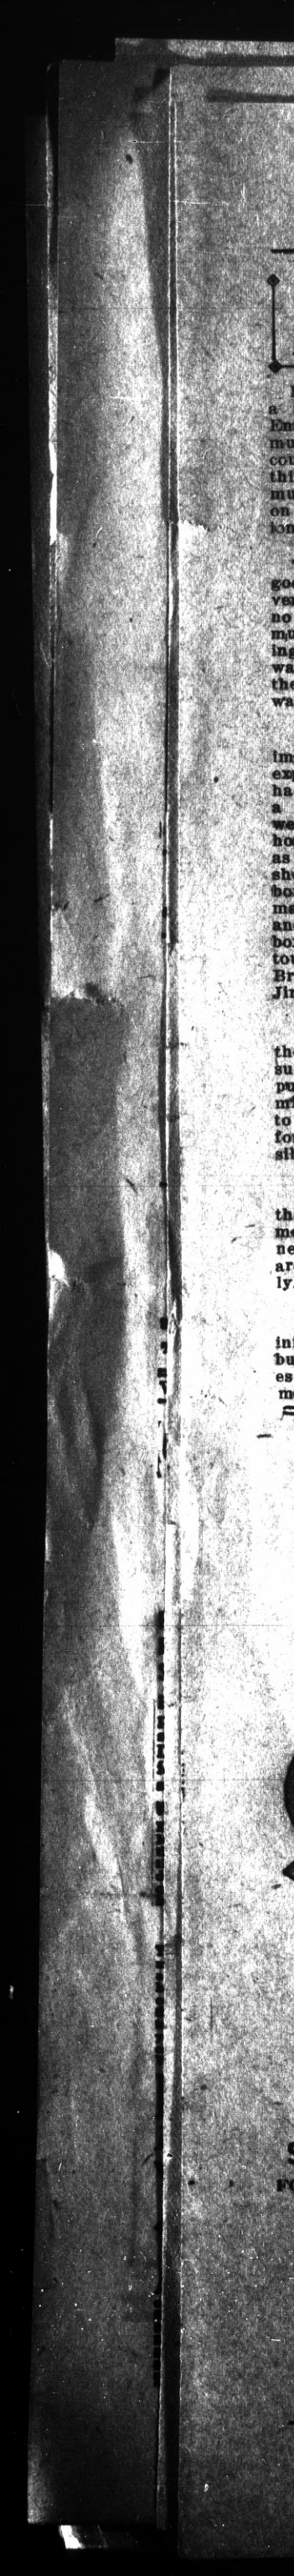

Just how was it possible for Braddock to improve his boxing ability to such an extent in such a short time, he surely had plenty on the ball in that respect in this contest, jabs, right crosses, left hooks, uppercuts, and what have you, he sure had them, somene must have worked wonders on him in training, and it just goes to show you, practice makes perfect. defense is the most essential assist one can have while fighting, because one cannot get any place getting hit, and while the other fellow is missing, you can be landing punches some place effectively.

* * *

It is very funny how the bettors or gamblers make such mistakes in their prices, three to one the betting at this contest, ten to one, at one a short time ago, where does it come in, can promoters think such betting makes good drawing cards, or does lack of material cause this? Or suckers. Farr apparently won six rounds and the wonderful showing of Braddock in the last stanza won him the verdict, can that be fair? If I give you six apples, two are thrown away, give you two, who has the best of the bargain, apple sauce I'll say. By the way that would make good dessert.

Anyway we will be enlightened in a very short time, we will find out the object of the draw verdict, and you just watch Mr. Farr the next time, he will be a very different boxer, or fighter, no need of low punching for a fellow as clever as Mr. Farr is supposed to be, a very cool, active fellow, plenty of experience, everything to offset the repition of the punch, he never did seem to be a bit dizzy or groggy from reports.

"And let me impress upon you once and for all," the orator shouted reaching a climax, "that nothing that is false ever does anybody any good."

"Ye're wrong there, Mister," a little old man in the audience interrupted. "I've got false teeth and they do me a lot of good."

Get Him

"What goes there?" challenged the recruit on night sentry duty.

"Officer of the day," came the response.

"Oh, yeah?" said the sentry. "Then what're you doing out at night?"
